Course Objective

When it comes to delivering on expectations, Accountability is the foundational element needed in your organization. As a leader, embed accountability into your culture, make it your language, and tie it to the results you need. Leaders understand that holding others accountable is a fundamental key to achieving results.

Leading others can be precarious when your success and reputation relies on the performance of others. Holding others accountable is essential to effective leadership.

Course Overview

This Leadership Builder program canters around the powerful Accountability Sequence[®] model.

- The model's FORM process establishes expectations that are frameable, obtainable, repeatable, and measurable – a simple but revolutionary process ensuring successful understanding and execution.

- Leaders are also taught the Why-What-When[®] approach to communication, including how to make the “Why” more compelling to increase engagement.
- Simple, memorable methods for alignment and inspection complete the model's time-tested process for establishing expectations.
- The program also trains in managing expectations that are unmet or are in jeopardy.
- Powerful tools help leaders overcome excuses, change beliefs or experiences that are impeding progress, or identify training needs to guide and empower team members to deliver on expectations.
- Ultimately, both leaders and teams benefit from greater accountability, better results by higher engagement.
